BASIC LIVING SKILLS

Life is constantly moving and developing. To survive the 4.0 industrial revolution, each person must formulate their basic life skills to overcome any and all difficulties, challenges to achieve success. Therefore, "training in actual life skills is just as important as acquiring knowledge".

For example, rabbits were created with the skills to be a fast running animal so they would have the "tools" to escape their enemies; So too the tiger must train himself with the basic skills to catch prey. Humans aren't any different to... Without basic life skills, people will be excluded from society. Therefore, we need to equip ourselves with the most basic of life skills such as: survival skills, problem solving skills, time management skills, teamwork skills, communication skills, the skills needed to show empathy and tolerance. These are some the basic skills we need in the modern world and we will need to master them should we wish to survive.

Here are some pictures of SVIS@NhaTrang students some of living skill training activities at SVIS.

ENGLISH CLUB

During classes English teachers must ensure that the students work through exercises covering all skills and they often work alone or in small groups. This can include difficult tasks like reading long texts, writing paragraphs and doing grammar exercises. Sometimes it feels like hard work!

However, the English Club provides students with a different approach by learning through games and fun activities in larger groups of mixed grades. This gives students the opportunity to interact with a range of different people and different levels in an environment that is fun and exciting.

Commencing at the beginning of September, the English Club is open to every age group in the school, starting at 8.00am before normal classes commence. Each week the Club focusses on important social topics such as trust, confidence, honesty, integrity, responsibility, sharing and many others. Teachers introduce and explain the concept, then a series of games and activities including teambuilding exercises, roleplay and more reinforce the message. Students practice these values through fun games and activities that require teamwork and cooperation while being encouraged and led by the foreign English teachers. The Club will run throughout the year and is an integral part of the curriculum at SVIS. The students absolutely love it!

PHYSICAL SPORTS AND HEALTH

Exercise is not only beneficial for a person's physical health but is also very effective in one's spiritual life. Physical training also helps people feel healthy, strong, full of vitality and increases your confidence. Exercise helps us create the ability to face and overcome difficult situations in our own lives effectively, makes us braver and improves the adaptability of the body.

At SVIS Nha Trang, the students participate in sport activities at the school with annual activities such as football, tug of war, basketball, swimming, etc. In break time, after class time or during Friday group activities, they can participate in sport games such as skipping rope, tug of war, dumpling jump, water volleyball. The main two (football and basketball) always attract students and parents alike.

In addition, the school organizes annual sport clubs such as football, basketball, martial arts and are always encouraging students to find sports that they love and regularly practice them to not just improve health, but bring a feeling of inspiration for learning, training and teamwork.
